LEGISLATURE TO ADJOURN SATURDAY

Deadlocks Broken in Both Houses as 11 Measures Passed

Administration Forces Whip Voting Lines Into Position

SACRAMENTO, Wednesday, June 12. (AP)—A legislature beset by deadlocks which have forced it into the longest session in California history suddenly snapped its shackles today, ripped through a mass of controversial legislation and swept on toward probable adjournment by Saturday.

Administration forces, springing to life after days of weary jockeying for position, snapped voting lines into shape and between 9 a. m. yesterday and 1 a. m. today 11 major pieces of legislation were pounded through the senate or assembly.

The bills and the captions upon them follow:

1. The senate, by a 33-5 vote, and the assembly, by a 42-31 vote, adopted a free conference report breaking a long standing deadlock upon rates for a state income tax and sent the measure to Governor Merriam for signing.
2. The senate, after an historic struggle, passed the highly-disputed Duval bill transferring automobile property taxes to the state from the cities and counties. The vote, 20-9, will be reconsidered.
3. The senate, by a 37-0 vote, passed the Jones mortgage and moratorium bill, extending the present law to February 1, 1937, and permitting a mortgagee in default to go into court and seek relief on principal and interest payments. The assembly will be asked to concur in amendments.
4. By a 31-1 vote, the senate passed the assembly Hornblower bill liberalizing the state's old age security act, setting maximum payments at $35 and minimum at $20 a month, and cutting the age limit to 65 years. The assembly will be asked to concur in amendments.
5. The senate, voting 30-0, (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 1)

Pictures Tell About Ethiopia Now Faced by War

Ethiopia—threatened by war. When the rainy season comes this fall, Ethiopia may find itself in a war with Italy. Starting today on Page 7, The Journal presents a daily series of 15 pictures vividly portraying life in this little-known African country. Taken by Alfred Eisenstaedt, the Associated Press' Ace European cameraman, the photographs show not only the military preparations but also the life and customs of the people in the "Black Empire."

PIONEER TALES

By the Old Timer

The third of a series of narratives having to do with the early life of Santa Ana and Orange county.

WELL, folks, here we go for Nov. 20, 1880. We are still working from the files of the old Herald with Jacob Ross proprietor.

I told you last week that the next installment would deal with the mining boom right here at home so we will quote from the Herald:

"Marshal A. W. Pool and Deputy J. D. Dunlap visited the Silverado mines on Monday. Mr. Dunlap brought down some fine ore from the mine in which he is interested. The near future will give us a live mining camp in Silverado canyon, with her silver mines and her coal mines of the Black Star and the Santa Clara, and Santa Ana will have to look sharp that there is not a healthy sister town born up in those hills. Wonderful things happen in this wonderful country, as we have before remarked on more than one occasion, and the Silverado Mining Boom may be the name of the next newspaper in this section of the state."

"Miners are in demand at the Black Star coal mines, Santiago canyon, east of Santa Ana. Vigorous work is now being done at these mines."

Later we shall take up these mines again, as they are developed, but you can see the boom has started. Little did those fellows know that in fifty-five years the Silverado silver mines would still be starting all over again, that oil wells would break the skyline in various directions from Santa Ana and that "Skinny" Skirvin would be right in the middle of the whole works—you bet it's a wonderful country.

"One day this week no less than twelve large freight teams were on

Kingfish in Filibuster on New NRA

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, June 12. (AP)—The administration resolution to extend NRA in abbreviated form, ran into a filibuster by Senator Huey Long today, after democratic leaders had engineered a partial victory.

Long launched into a long and rambling discussion of NRA, after he had lost in an effort to tie onto the resolution extending the recovery law a "rider" requiring senate confirmation of all federal officials drawing $4000 a year or more. The rider would break up the system under which the administration has appointed federal officials in Louisiana from the anti-Long faction.

"This is a very tangled mess," he said. "I doubt if we can get it straightened out by Sunday night." The NRA law expires then.

PHONE LINES BURN HERE

Garage Fire Destroys Cables, Silencing 300 Instruments

Communication by telephone with hundreds of homes in the northern part of Santa Ana city was made impossible early today when fire broke out in the garage in the rear of a residence at 1509 North Main street at 3:30 a. m. and two cables carrying telephone lines were damaged.

The residence is occupied by Milan M. Miller, and is the property of Mrs. Rose Clauson. Damage to the garage and a car belonging to Mr. Miller in the building was estimated at $850.

According to William Wells, district supervisor of the Southern California Telephone company, one of the cables containing 600 pairs of wires, and the other 25 pairs. Approximately 300 phones in the Broadway park area and residences just south of there were rendered useless. Mr. Wells said repairs would be completed by early afternoon.

Although the fire itself was comparatively small, the damage to telephone lines was greater than that caused by the earthquake of March, 1933, Mr. Wells said.

JAPS ADD TO DEMANDS

PEIPING, Wednesday, June 12. (AP)—A fresh series of demands was delivered to General Yo Ying-Chin, Chinese minister of war and chairman of the Peiping military council by Japanese military authorities today.

The new demands, which amplify those presented May 29, were believed to include wholesale dismissal of Chinese officials in Hopei province and their replacements by others friendly to Japan.

MOTHER OF 3 IS SUICIDE

Son Discovers Body Hanging in Closet Of Their Home

Raymond McCollum opened a closet door in the McCollum home this morning, looked in, and saw his mother, Mrs. Hulda Louise McCollum, hanging with a rope around her neck. She was dead.

Mrs. McCollum, who lived with Raymond and two younger sons, Harley and Vernon, at 1016 West Bishop street, Santa Ana, had been ill for some time. Raymond told Deputy Coroner Burt Casteix she had become despondent over her poor health. Her husband also survives her.

A physician called by the coroner estimated she had been dead for nearly 12 hours. The body was removed to the Harrell and Brown mortuary and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Leonard P. Steuart, Washington, was chosen imperial potentate to succeed Dana S. Williams, Lewiston, Me. The re-elected officers are James C. Burger of Denver, treasurer, and James H. Price of Richmond, lieutenant-governor of Virginia, recorder.

Boost Dr. Bigham For President of State Plan Group

Orange county, already on the map as a result of constructive work done by its planning commission, will be placed more prominently in the limelight next Saturday when a concerted move will be launched to elect Dr. Walter L. Bigham of Anaheim president of the State Association of County Planning Commissions.

Dr. Bigham is chairman of the Orange county planning body and has served in that capacity since the organization was formed about five years ago.

The candidacy of Dr. Bigham will be placed before the convention of the state association at San Diego Saturday. The affair will take place in the San Diego hotel.

Dr. Bigham is now secretary of the state organization.

Support is planned.

W. H. Jahant of Bakersfield is now president of the state planning group, and also chairman of the Kern county planning commission.

Support for Dr. Bigham's candidacy is expected from various parts of the state. The Orange county planning group will attend the San Diego convention and will work on behalf of their chairman's candidacy.

Other members of the commission are Jules W. Markel, secretary, and Oliver Halsell, Santa Ana; L. W. Briggs, Balboa; James Macklin, Huntington Beach; Hugh Thomson, Orange; and ex-officio members Nat Neff, who is county highway superintendent; County Surveyor W. H. Hillyard, and District Attorney S. B. Kaufman.

The work of the commission and its cooperation with the board of supervisors will be outlined at the convention by Supervisor W. C. Jerome.

NEW CHINESE STATE SEEN

TOKYO, Wednesday, June 12. (AP)—Sentiment for creation of an independent Chinese state in north China, which would be friendly to Japan and Manchoukuo and unconnected with the Chinese Nationalist government at Nanking, was reported today in dispatches to the Rengo (Japanese) News agency.

The reports ascribed to influential Chinese and Japanese in the area the assertion that among the masses in the territory now under Japanese military domination "the hope is loudly expressed" that such a state would be established. The independent buffer state, it was reported, would be composed of the four northern Chinese provinces, Hopei, Shantung, Shansi and Chahar.

59 HERE WIN CITIZENSHIP

Setting a record as the largest class of applicants for citizenship ever to appear in Orange county, 59 persons appeared before Presiding Judge James L. Allen today to swear allegiance to their native lands.

When the 59 applicants for citizenship entered the court room, each with two witnesses, the room was packed, and many were forced to stand in the rear of the room and at the sides. Because of the large class, all candidates were given their preliminary examination on the constitution during the past week at the office of Examiner Davis, in the federal building.

The new citizens were examined in groups of 19 and, after brief questioning by Judge Allen, were taken to the supervisors' board room, where certificates of citizenship were issued by County Clerk J. M. Backs.

Two Big Projects

The parkways being constructed on Santiago creek, and an unusual park development in Newport Bay are among the projects which the planning commission has encouraged and assisted in getting started. Its technical workers under Alfred St. John have done detailed planning work to make the projects possible.

The Santiago creek parkways are still in a formative stage, but the maps prepared by Mr. St. John and his staff make it possible to see the finished work.

HOOVER DECIDES HE WILL REENTER PUBLIC LIFE

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN
Authors Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, June 12.—There was nothing accidental about the recent flurry of public appearances and speeches of Herbert Hoover.

They were all carefully arranged and timed. Sources close to the former republican president say that from now on he can be expected to perform in the limelight with increasing frequency and forcefulness.

Hoover, they declare, has decided to enter public life. Whether this means he has his cap set for another shot at the presidency, his friends are unable to say. They do, however, relate this significant story.

In the original manuscript of Hoover's book, published last year, there was a statement that he was not a candidate for the 1936 nomination.

But on the advice of Ogden L. Mills, secretary of the treasury in his cabinet, and several other close political advisers, Hoover eliminated the declaration. It never appeared in the published volume.

GRAB KIDNAP SUSPECT IN MID-WEST

Report Man Resembling Mahan Arrested by Federal Officers

NABBED ON TRAIN

Kidnapers Are Whisked Into Plane for Trip To Tacoma

MOBRIDGE, S. D., Wednesday, June 12. (AP)—A man believed to be a suspect in the $200,000 Weyerhaeuser kidnapping was arrested here aboard a freight train today by Werner Hanni, federal agent, and returned immediately to Baker, Mont., for questioning. Unofficial sources said the man was believed to be William Mahan, scar-marked fugitive, believed seen yesterday in Butte, Mont.

SALT LAKE CITY, Wednesday, June 12. (AP)—Whisked down the back stairs of the federal building while newspaper men awaited their arraignment in federal court, Mr. and Mrs. Harmon M. Waley, confessed kidnapers of George Weyerhaeuser, hopped off for Tacoma in a United Airlines plane shortly before 2 p. m., Mountain standard time today.

Kidnaping charges under the Lindbergh law were filed against Mr. and Mrs. Waley in Tacoma, Wash., yesterday and warrants for them were believed to have been brought here by department of justice agents.

Meanwhile, the search for William Mahan, former Idaho and Montana convict, also charged with the kidnaping, was pressed in the vicinity of Butte, Mont.

Department of justice men confiscated $15,000 of the ransom money Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Weyerhaeuser paid for the return of their son, George, when Mahan's automobile was seized in Butte Sunday morning. This amount, plus the $90,700 cache revealed by the Waleys, $300 spent by them and $4000 burned by the confessed kidnapers when officers picked up his trail, brought the total ransom money recovered to more than $110,000.

An air of tenseness existed at the federal building but the (Please turn to Page 2, Col. 6)

Conrad Moves to Oust Talbert and Two Councilmen

The Huntington Beach battle between men, money and good government, for the $350,000,000 oil deposit under the Huntington Beach tidelands, reached sensational proportions today with the following developments:

- 1—Circulation of petitions for the recall of Mayor T. B. Talbert and Councilmen Anthony Tovatt and John H. Marion of Huntington Beach. Mayor Talbert has led the fight to give Huntington Beach a slice of the big melon.
- 2—The assertion by Supervisor N. E. West of Laguna Beach that he is only beginning to fight for the public's interest in the state oil and that the issue will, in his opinion, develop into another Teapot Dome scandal.
- 3—Tentative approval by the state assembly of the Swing bill to allow drilling from artificial islands off the coast on a basis whereby the state would receive 20 and 30 per cent royalties.
- 4—First reading of an emergency ordinance by the Huntington Beach council to prevent such drilling.
- 5—Calling of a meeting of coast organizations by Mr. Talbert to adopt a resolution opposing such drilling.

Conrad Starts Fight

Notice of intention to recall Mayor Talbert and the two councilmen was filed on April 18, and today the petitions were placed in circulation by Elson G. Conrad, former mayor, and Frank Morris. Published charges against the officials accuse them of wasteful extravagance, creating a political machine, incompetence and neglect of duty. All these charges have been denied and Mr. Talbert has asserted that a $68,000 reduction in city expenditures was made between 1932 and 1935 in spite of a 45 per cent drop in assessed valuation.

Mayor Talbert said today he had been accused of planning to give the state's tideland oil to the Standard Oil company.

The Swing bill, measure which would allow drilling from islands off the coast, is a rider on the financial bill introduced by Ralph Swing of San Bernardino county. Associated Press reports said it had already passed the senate, that it was approved by the assembly early today by a 41 to 37 vote, and that it will come before the assembly again tomorrow on a motion for reconsideration by Assemblyman Hornblower of San Francisco.

SUPERVISOR HURLS BOMB

Says Is Interested in Seeing Competition In Royalty Bids

Supervisor N. E. West of Laguna Beach today threw a bomb into the controversy over leasing state tideland oil resources at Huntington Beach when he said that the situation now threatens to become a second Teapot Dome scandal.

Mr. West, in explaining his statement, said the taxpayers have few friends in the state senate and that "several senators confessed to me that they are dominated by big business, particularly large oil companies."

The question is really whether the vast Huntington Beach oil resources shall be developed by private groups or whether the public is to get the benefit of the state's resources, he said. It is not merely a Huntington Beach issue, but a public one affecting the entire state, he contended.

Interest in Royalty

Mr. West said his only interest is to see that the lease, when made, is with a responsible company, and one that will pay the largest royalty to the public. He expressed doubt that the public would get the best deal through slant drilling from the Standard Oil property on the Huntington Beach bluffs.

"But the state will never get its rights unless there is honest competitive bidding for the leasing privilege, without collusion," he said.

"This thing threatens to become a second Teapot Dome scandal, in (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

More Royalties Proposed

If this bill passes both houses, it will thus place before Governor Merriam two measures, one to allow slant drilling from the bluffs at Huntington Beach, on a basis whereby the city would receive 30 per cent and the state 16 per cent royalties, and the other to allow island drilling. The state would receive a 20 per cent royalty under the latter measure until the cost of drilling had been returned, after which it would receive 30 per cent.

The first bill, for drilling on the bluffs, would result in the wells being placed on Standard Oil company land. The island bill has been proposed with a view to a lease being signed with the Gilmore Exploration company. It is presumed to have little chance in the senate.

The Huntington Beach city council provided the fourth development.

CONSTITUTION IS 1936 ISSUE AS 'GRASS ROOTS' SESSION CLOSES

DIRECT ATTACK ON PRESIDENT IS PLANNED

Republicans Ready to 'Combat Destructive Forces in America'

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Wednesday, June 12. (AP)—The constitution became a leading "grass roots" campaign issue today, with mid-western republican politicians declaring themselves ready to combat the destructive forces at work in America today.

Organizers of the ten-state convention indicate they would continue to strive for a 1936 republican victory on the basis of the "save the constitution" slogan and a direct attack upon President Roosevelt.

Following adjournment, General Chairman Harrison E. Spangler of the "grass rooters" said:

"The conference has spoken. It has reflected the true heart of the midwest. The people of this territory... have volunteered at the first call in the defense of our American institutions. No gathering of 10,000 people could have been more representative."

In brief, the party rally at Lincoln shrines:

1. Stressed the "save the constitution" battle cry.

2. Made a sustained attack directly upon President Roosevelt, holding him responsible for criticized phases of the new deal.

3. Avoided carefully any G. O. P. presidential boom.

sible to visualize the attractive areas being prepared on hitherto waste land, where Orange county residents eventually will find varied recreational facilities.

Mr. Markel yesterday afternoon took a Journal reporter on a tour of the projects. Jack Fisher park, just east of the Flower street bridge on the Santiago creek, which began several years ago as a camping spot for Boy Scouts, presents a picture of what the parkways will look like when completed. This is a city project, expanded with assistance from the State Emergency Relief Administration. The basic feature of all the creek projects is control of the stream channel, and at Jack Fisher park concrete walls have been constructed to confine the flow so that the adjacent park will be safe from flooding.

Confining Channel
Picnic tables and cooking facilities grouped under eucalyptus trees, already have made the park a favorite gathering place for Santa Ana residents.

As a result of planning commission efforts, Santa Ana and Orange have coordinated other park projects along the creek. Work of confining the channel is under way with SERA assistance on a Santa Ana project between the Main street bridge and Santiago street. Here attractive drives will be built so that cars can travel through the city's park and on through an adjoining park project sponsored by the county.

The county's park area will extend to the Glassell street bridge, joining it with the Orange city park east of the bridge. Native shrubs and trees will be planted along the banks in the parkways, while landscaping and planting will augment groves of eucalyptus already there.

Project at Bay
The city and county park areas are large enough so that tennis courts, horseshoe courts and similar recreational facilities will be built. Cabins for Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will be erected.

One of the most unusual park projects in Southern California is the 50-acre park being created in Newport bay just to the left of the coast highway bridge. The planning commission's interest in this development resulted in a $2000 county appropriation for building a levee around the proposed park area. Within the last few days the enclosed area has begun to emerge as new land. Material dredged from Newport bay is being diverted to this park and soon will fill in the netire 50 acres with solid sand. The filling costs the county nothing, for it is being done simply by diverting the dredged material.

With a layer of soil above the sand, the county will be able to landscape this bay park and turn it into another recreational area. Lagoons for boating will be formed also, and can be reached through the bay channel adjoining the park.

Land Use Survey
Adjoining the county's bay park, the Irvine company is creating another 50-acre section of new land with dredged material purchased from the county. Here will be a subdivision in which residents can sail their boats along canals to their back doors, or drive their cars up to the front.

The park projects fit into a general county-wide plan for orderly development of the county, prepared by the planning commission. The walls of the planning commission offices in the court house complex display part of the maps developed in this work, particularly zoning maps the full length of the Coast highway.

With the assistance of the SERA, a complete land use survey of the county has been made, and draughtsmen are now busy preparing large maps based on the studies, which will show the use to which every plot of land in the county is put. The maps will indicate dwellings, wells, the type of crop grown and other facts about which the people of California alone would be the victims. It has elements of scandal more serious than those in Teapot Dome, inasmuch as this lease agreement can only come about through the willingness of a majority of the legislature and the governor.

"The Teapot Dome scandal was limited to the crooked dealing of a small number of appointed officials."

Percentage Is 16 2/3
Assembly bill 164 provides for slant drilling from Standard Oil company land, with a minimum royalty of 16 2/3 per cent for the state.

"This also means 16 2/3 per cent would be the maximum," said Mr. West. "There being only one littoral land owner from whose property there could be drilling, there thus would be no competition. It is foolish to think that the oil concern would bid more than it was required to."

"Out of 25 wells drilled on the bluff by the Standard, 22 are vertical. These wells drain the state pool legally. Because of the migratory nature of oil these wells drain part of it by natural drainage."

"If the lease should be made, even on the ridiculous low royalty of 16 2/3 per cent, there would be no incentive for the private concern to develop the new wells to their capacity, because the other wells already drilled would be getting state oil by natural drainage."

"Whipstock Rider"
"The rider on the Swing bill permits drilling from islands on a royalty basis of 20 per cent to the state until the cost of drilling is returned, and 50 per cent thereafter. It does not give any concern a monopoly and would still permit whipstocking from the Standard lands."

"But it does allow competitive bidding. Thus the state director of finance could insist that the whipstocked well operators offer a royalty somewhere near that of the island drillers."

"I feel that, due to arguments that the county and city have bonded the citizens to get rights of way, have built bridges and have contributed in other ways to development of this area, the county has the absolute moral right to share in these royalties."

"Whether the city or the county get a nickel, the public's right and necessity is absolute in having these resources developed by competition. If Huntington Beach or the county can only share in this wealth at the expense of sacrificing more than one-half of the royalties which would accrue by honest competition, then they should not participate. The public should have the benefit of the maximum income obtainable from competition."

"I consider that assembly bill 1684 is a complete sellout and a betrayal of the people of California. It does not provide for competition and will not produce for the public more than one-half of what has been offered in royalties on another basis."

"While it is a double crime to surrender this income we know we can get, also the condition of the taxpayers is becoming more unbearable, and the almost total absence of concern by the legislature in the taxpayers' problems is evidenced by the fact that the majority of the legislature and the governor were elected on an economy program, but have proceeded to increase expenses in almost all branches of government by adding $18,000,000 to the cost as compared to the previous biennium. And they've taken no action to call a constitutional convention, the demand for which was voiced at the last election."

land use. Tabulating of the information gathered in this manner will follow.

A proposed ordinance has been drawn up, putting the land use plan into effect for the county. The ordinance would regulate use of land but would not require any certain sum to be spent on buildings or specify any certain types of architecture.

ment yesterday afternoon, when it introduced and read for the first time an emergency ordinance to prohibit such island drilling within the city limits off its shores, which extend for three miles oceanward.

The sudden action was taken after the rider providing for island drilling was introduced by Assemblyman Charles Lyon of Los Angeles.

Mass Meeting Called
Mayor Talbert today said he would take steps to call a meeting of representatives of Huntington Beach chamber of commerce, the Orange County Coast association, the Southern California Bath House association and the Associated Chambers of Commerce to adopt resolutions against the island drilling bill.

Mayor Talbert and coast associations are opposed to such drilling, insisting that it would result in despoiling the beaches with waste oil. Some time ago he predicted that these groups would launch injunction proceedings to block such drilling, if necessary.

Charges Fly Fast
The Huntington Beach oil fight has extended its ramifications into business and political life affecting all of Southern California. Charges of graft and political intrigue are everywhere. The average citizen knows little of the real issues involved.

Briefly, its history is this: The oil deposits known to exist are under tidelands which the state of California claims title to. (This, by the way, has been questioned, some attorneys holding that no grant ever was made to the state—or even to the federal government.)

The city of Huntington Beach attempted to gain title to the tidelands through proposition No. 11, voted upon and defeated in the election of 1932.

The Standard Oil company owns the shorelands fronting the tideland oil deposit. This company, together with others, began stockpiling oil from the tidelands by an invention known as whipstocking or slant drilling. The practice grew until more than 80 wells were operating in this fashion. Little was said about it and only a few knew of the huge operations being carried on until a sudden awakening.

Law suits were started and the state, finally obtained a settlement from oil companies—all except the Standard Oil company. Legislation was then proposed which, if effected, would give the state the right to permit the Standard and other companies the right to continue drilling by the whipstock method, the state to receive a royalty of 16 2/3 per cent. The city of Huntington Beach then entered the picture, through the activities of Mayor Talbert.

Talbert Leads Way
Mayor Talbert finally succeeded in getting the Standard Oil company, the Hancock Oil company, the Huntington Beach company and the Pacific Electric company together on a deal which would enable all the oil companies to drill from Standard shoreline property in slant fashion to the oil beds. It was stipulated in the agreement that the city of Huntington Beach was to receive a royalty of 3 per cent, in addition to the state's 16 2/3 per cent.

Then came clamors from county government interests for a share. The oil pool is in Orange county. It was argued, therefore Orange county should be "cut-in" fully as much as Huntington Beach. Efforts were made to induce the county board of supervisors to attempt to "lease" the property to the oil companies and thus establish the county's claim to a share of the royalties.

Board Refuses Action
The board of supervisors, after considering the issue from all angles and after obtaining expert legal advice, took no action. A majority of its members decided the county had nothing to lease. Huntington Beach, as a municipal corporation, might establish its right to collect from the deal but Orange county's equity in the lands—if it ever had any—passed when Huntington Beach took over the property at the time of its incorporation as a municipality, it was argued.

The bill authorizing the state to participate in the joint agreement has passed both houses of the legislature and is awaiting the signature of the governor.

Opponents of the measure are making every effort within their power to induce the governor to veto the bill.

The Santa Ana chamber of commerce asked the governor to veto the bill and then rescinded its action after learning Orange county's rights could not be established.

Standard Alert as Ever
It appears at the moment the Standard Oil company's usual business foresight, together with the enterprise of Mayor Talbert of Huntington Beach has captured the plum tree. It owns the shorelands from which drilling operations must be carried on. The state claims ownership to the oil pool. Orange county gave up its rights to Huntington Beach territory when the city of Huntington

YOUTH LINKED IN HOLDUP

Forrest Wilmoth, 20-year-old Arkansas youth, killed Sunday night at Needles in a gun battle with a police officer who later died from wounds received in the fight, today was definitely identified as the man who held up a service station operator in Ocean-side May 29 and escaped after a running gun battle with police officers at San Clemente.

Wilmoth's identification as the Ocean-side bandit was announced today by Deputy Sheriff James Ragan after receiving a detailed description of the man and his clothing. The description was received from Sheriff Shay of San Bernardino.

The one fact that clinched Wilmoth's connection with the Ocean-side robbery and subsequent gun battle in San Clemente was a description of the gun used by him in playing the Needles officer. The gun used by the Ocean-side bandit was a .32 calibre weapon and was distinctive in that the firing pin struck to the side of the bullet. The gun used by Wilmoth in Needles was a Spanish type .765 millimeter automatic, corresponding to a .32 calibre gun, and also fired off-center.

According to San Bernardino county deputy sheriffs who assisted Orange county officers in the investigation, Wilmoth assertedly arrived in Needles in an automobile stolen in Los Angeles. The car used by him in the Ocean-side service station robbery was stolen in San Diego and abandoned at San Clemente when Wilmoth fled after his brush with police.

Deputy Ragan said today that the San Diego county sheriff is being requested to send the operator of the Ocean-side service station to Needles to make positive identification of Wilmoth.

PEARL BUCK ON HONEYMOON

RENO, Wednesday, June 12. (AP) Pearl Buck, the novelist, was honeymooning today after a double-quick Reno marital shift which made her the bride of Richard J. Walsh, New York publisher.

Mrs. Ruth A. Walsh, who divorced the publisher while Mrs. Buck was obtaining legal severance from John L. Buck, witnessed the marriage.

MORE ABOUT KIDNAPING

"G-men" declined to indicate when the Waleys would be brought into court.

At first it was believed the pair would be taken back to the north-west to face the drastic new state law which fixes a maximum of death on conviction of kidnaping. The federal law, enacted following the Lindbergh kidnaping, does not demand a death penalty unless the victim is harmed. As far as is known, George was well treated during his eight days of captivity.

TRAVELS WITH HOUNDS

During a recent meet of the Boyle Harrier's Hunt in Northern Ireland, a fox broke cover and started across country, with the hounds following in full cry. Shortly afterward the huntsman noticed what he thought was a strange dog running in the midst of the pack, but on getting closer he saw it was a fox. The intruder kept with the hounds, which, intent on hunting another fox, took no notice of it. When the hunt was passing close to a brush-covered hill the "visitor" suddenly bolted into the brush and disappeared.

FORM 'KNIGHTHOOD'

COPENHAGEN (AP)—The "knighthood of cautious motorists," pledged to traffic courtesies, has been formed in Denmark as part of a campaign to decrease the number of fatal accidents.

"Knights" pledge not to yield the road to cars coming from behind at illegal speed, and to use all caution in crossing main highways.

The precautions are well enough known, but often in the rush of other affairs, they are neglected. They are largely a matter of child care and training.

Children should be cautioned against accepting favors from strangers, against following people who offer them an automobile ride, a visit to the movies or any kind of party or treat.

Such training should be given simply as a matter of course. Care should be taken in giving it not to make children self-conscious and not to build up an attitude of fear, since fear is often found the cause of undesirable emotional reactions.

Children should be taught to look on the policeman as a friend who will help in trouble. Some parents make their children afraid

PENTHOUSES LURE MAYFAIR FAMILIES FROM OLD HOMES

LONDON, Wednesday, June 12. (AP)—Mayfair wealthiest are forsaking the old family brownstones, with their coal fires and running cold water, and going in for luxurious apartments and penthouses.

The swankiest penthouse yet installed, occupying the two top floors of a new building at Marble Arch, has been leased by Lord and Lady Louis Mountbatten at a reputed rental of $20,000 a year. It contains five reception rooms, 18 bedrooms, seven baths and a children's wing with a school room.

Burglars who might covet the Mountbatten jewelry and plate will find the place a hard one to crack. Reached by private elevator, it is entirely separate from other floors of the building. No one can leave the elevator at the top unless he previously has phoned the butler from the lobby.

Even the Mountbattens have to ask him to please let them in.

SWEET CLOVER IS SOIL-BUILDING CROP

URBANA, Ill., Wednesday, June 12. (AP)—Once a weed, sweet clover may rise to an even more prominent place as a soil-building crop if it continues to be improved in experiments being carried on by the University of Illinois.

Already several experimental strains have been developed which show desirable variations in maturity or which are able to withstand hard winters, dry weather and disease.

Already determined by the tests at the college of agriculture is that common biennial sweet clover is cross-fertilized to a large extent by bees and other insects, accounting for the wide difference in date of maturity, habit of growth, leafiness and susceptibility to disease.

RAIN ENDS DROUGHT

RIO DE JANEIRO. (AP)—Off-droughts in many years, threatening crops throughout the central and southern parts of Spain, was brought to an end by a record fall of rain which drenched the arid regions 10 successive days.

Police officers by the threat, "The policeman will get you if you are naughty."

It is advisable to teach children at the earliest possible age to give clear answers when asked to tell their name. Many children who stray, run away or get lost could be returned to their homes much sooner if they were able to give their own and their parents name, their address and home telephone number.

Footprints and fingerprints of infants, if not made as a matter of routine by the hospital after birth, should be obtained by the parents.

Preventive Work
Parents will also be working for the protection of their children if they take an active interest in the whole question of law enforcement and strive to promote high standards of public administration.

Preventive work, based on constructive activities for young people and intelligent treatment of youthful delinquents are, in the latest analysis, among the most effective means of wiping out crime and racketeering.

Miss Mary Swasey will teach Spanish in the summer sessions but has no definite plans for the remainder of the summer.

PESTS HAVEN'T A CHANCE DIPLOMAS FOR ORANGE GRADS

Army of Men Poisons 'Em

BUENA PARK, Wednesday, June 12.—Jack rabbits haven't a chance. Neither have their neighbors, the pesky gophers, since the Orange county pest control workers are on the job.

Coming over the brow of a hill in the fertile fields near Brea yesterday afternoon, the pest control squad, 10 abreast, looked like the advance guard of an army unit. Each man carried a shillalah, a big spoon and a bucket, systematically surveyed a strip of land, and halted only momentarily to dish out a spoonful of poisoned feed in the entrance of the pests' living quarters.

LAGUNA BEACH GROUP STARTS PLANS FOR JUNIOR C. OF C.

LAGUNA BEACH, Wednesday, June 12.—First active steps in the organization of a junior chamber of commerce were taken here last night when members voted to file application for membership in the national branch of the Junior Chamber.

Adolph Felger was elected temporary president, and R. Arnett, temporary secretary. Other members who are organizers are Bill Hight, Paul Bogust, Neil Hawthorne, J. D. Blanchard, H. O. Poort, David Bopp and Carl Metz.

Four Pasadena men, locally and nationally known for their junior chamber of commerce interests and work spoke on various phases of the organization. Speakers were R. R. Edwards, member of board of directors of Pasadena Chamber of Commerce; B. White, representative National Council of Junior Chamber of Commerce; and A. D. Reno, member Glendale Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Plans and interests of the new

The fleety rabbits had only one course to take—straight ahead—against this squad of enemies, and they did not always come out second best with the gopher in the wild scramble to duck out of sight in some hole in the ground.

When they would come up after their scare, a supper of tasty barley would be there, inviting and free, the rabbits and gophers little knowing it was to be their last supper. The pest control is doing valuable work assisting the farmer with ridding the pests, covering as much as 2000 or 3000 acres a day.

organization were discussed and though no definite action can be taken yet, the men expressed the desire to begin working "for constructive community advancement" as soon as the charter is filed in national headquarters.

Special stress was laid on the fact that the new organization will cooperate with, rather than be in competition to, the senior chamber of commerce. Mayor Frank Chapman sent a message to the meeting extending his best wishes, expressing his approval and desire to cooperate.

PLACENTIA, Wednesday, June 12.—Chambers of commerce in Orange county all lay claim to some virtue, accomplishment or outstanding ability, and in the past the Placentia chamber has been known far and wide as a fighting organization in which all members spoke their minds and engaged in verbal battles which have echoed throughout the district.

However, the local group has now given up all thought of being known as a battling organization in claim to fame. In all parts of the country it is gaining recognition for a possession which is said to be the envy of every other similar organization and for which they are rumored to have refused many offers.

The Placentia chamber has a pink piano!

and Earl Everett, local banker, is allowed to play the prized possession of the chamber, he is cautioned to use great care in fingering the keys. Ralph Essert, school superintendent and song leader at the meetings, glared furiously at his accompanist if he pounds with too great vigor in his enthusiasm at approaching the keyboard of the pastel-tinted instrument.

Transformed from a drab, commonplace appearing piano by the coat of pink when the chamber recently moved its meeting place, the instrument now harmonizes with the color scheme of the tea room where the group gathers each week.

Secretary S. H. "Stew" Strathman said today that no matter what offers are made by envious and jealous organizations, the local chamber intends to keep the now famous instrument, which is rapidly becoming one of the interesting exhibits of the community.

our streets, on their way to San Bernardino from Newport Landing.

The little steamer Newport brought down merchandise from San Francisco to Newport Landing, which was located on the west side of Newport Bay, approximately where the bridge at the state highway crosses the bay. There was a wharf and warehouse there and one of the earlier pilots was Capt. Kelly, father of D. N. and Wm. Kelly of this city. More about the Newport anon.

"John Sackman, blacksmith, who was so severely hurt by the anvil explosion, will open his shop again Monday," Mr. Sackman was the father of W. B. Sackman, of West Sixth street.

"Major Frank Ey, of Anaheim, visited Santa Ana this week." Mr. Ey was the father of our present Mayor Ey, attorney. Many years later he was mayor of Santa Ana.

There was a store at Garden Grove, even in those early days, as you will see:

"C. Howe has become sole owner of the Garden Grove store. See his advertisement."

Here are a few of the prices Mr. Howe quoted:

"13 yards good calico.....$1.00
6 yards Amoskeag stripes.....1.00
8 1/2 yds. C. sugar.....1.00
5 1/2 lbs. best coffee.....1.00
"Cash paid according to quotations for corn, barley, butter, eggs, chickens, etc."

The quotations for eggs in the same issue was 35c. in trade, and for butter 30c. to 35c.

"Large quantities of the new corn crop are being sent to the San Francisco market both by rail and by the steamer Newport."

The Semi-Tropic California, for November, gives the following local items of the late fair:

"Mr. H. Goepfer, of Santa Ana, made an exhibit of grapes at the exposition, which attracted universal attention. Mr. Goepfer also took the first premium for the best half bushel of potatoes."

"Dr. Elmendorf, of Santa Ana, by his fine display of apples, shows that the locality is entitled to the successful culture of that fruit."

"Tustin City sent the largest pumpkin to the fair—weight 211 pounds. It came from the ranch of Mr. H. K. Snow, a gentleman through whose enterprise we were indebted for the magnificent display of fruit, etc., from that little settlement."

Mr. Goepfer's ranch was in the north part of town, west of Main street. The old ranch house was located near what is now Eighteenth and Broadway. There were four sons whom I remember—Leopold, Charles, Emil and Julius, the latter named being residents of Newport Beach.

Dr. Elmendorf resided on Grand avenue, north of Washington. He was a very congenial gentleman, with quite a talent at sketching. One of his best feats in that line was reproducing, from memory, pen and ink drawings of Fourth street in the early days, showing all the business houses in Santa Ana at that time. These sketches were published in the Herald about 1896, and a few of them are still in existence.

H. K. Snow was for many years one of the leading citizens of Tustin. He had a fine navel orange grove on what is now Prospect avenue, then known as "The Gravel Road."

"Frank Monaghan, conductor, has returned to the Los Angeles and Santa Ana road."

Mr. Monaghan, in later years, became a wealthy man and was associated with Dan Murphy, in the firm of Monaghan & Murphy, at Needles. He owned the twenty-acre orange grove at East First and Lyon streets, now the home of J. F. Prentice.

be procured in Los Angeles or Riverside, or at least it could have been last Saturday morning."

"From the latest data at hand, it is now thought that the wire production of this county the present season will exceed previous estimates, and foot up about an even two million gallons."

"John Lowe, blacksmith and wagon-maker, is too busy to take time to look at an item hunter."

The father of Hugh Lowe. Know him? The Lowe home was located at the northeast corner of Fourth and Van Ness.

"We were told one day this week that Mr. Bessonet, bricklayer, was negotiating for the purchase of some land on which to burn brick; that the brick was to be put into a building to cost $15,000; and that the building was to be a hotel. Is there anything in it?"

Geo. Bessonet was a well-known citizen here for many years. He built a brick building at the southwest corner of Fifth and Broadway, which was first used for a livery stable, later for a laundry and then demolished to make room for the Broadway theater block. However, the building had nothing to do with the item quoted being erected many years later.

Household hint:
"Wings of turkeys, geese and chickens should never be thrown away. Many people, especially in the country, keep them simply to brush off the stove or range, but there is nothing better to wash and clean the windows. Chamois or buckskin is very good, but wings are better and cost nothing."

Well, there goes the gong. So long, folks. Next week a ball game, with names of all of you know.
THE OLD-TIMER.

ONLY A HIGH TIDE CAN STOP HARBOR CHIEF'S CAR NOW

NEWPORT BEACH, Wednesday, June 12.—There are very few obstructions left that can stop Fire Chief Frank W. Crocker from getting to a vulnerable position on time now. Vacant lots, curbs, railroad tracks, and even the treacherous acres of sand throughout the harbor district cannot stop his little red touring car.

A new set of four gigantic tractor tires with the typical wide V-shaped tread were put on the diminutive vehicle yesterday. Special new wheels also were installed. Now the car will do everything but cross Newport Bay at high tide.

OILERS HAND STARS FIRST DEFEAT, 3 TO 1

Column Left!

By FRANK ROGERS

SEEING THINGS FROM THE ENEMY'S SIDE

Take it right from the lips of the wonder boy himself, Larrupin! Louie Neva joined Joe Rodgers and his Huntington Beach boys for a number of plain, simple and selfish reasons.

"When I needed a job last winter—and I was still on the National league blacklist—Joe was the only one to help me," he told us last night right after he had left the mound from whence he had handed Bill Cole's Stars their first defeat of the league chase.

"I wasn't under no obligations at all to Joe," he declared. "And when they reinstated me there wasn't anything said about me playing for Long Beach. Besides, when I went to Long Beach and asked Billy Foster (Chief Rear Admiral) for a job he looked me over and said 'we don't need any pitchers.'"

"Nobody seemed to want me in the National league and so I went to Hollywood. Later I asked Joe for a job because he had helped me to get a job when I needed it—and I gotta live."

"The only thing I want to do is to beat all them other National league teams for Huntington Beach."

Feeling somewhat like the spy who knows he is known, we saw last night's struggle at Huntington Beach from the Oilers' bench. Rodgers, the fiery pilot of the team, who goes on the green carpet before the National league moguls tomorrow night to defend his action in taking on Neva, is worried over the matter whether he'll admit it or not.

"I don't give a h-d-oh (that'll do, at least) what they do to me," he told us. And then went on to explain his stand, claiming that nothing in the minutes of the association indicates that Neva was reinstated as some maintain—for the sole purpose of playing with Long Beach.

All this is not intended to indicate our lack of loyalty for the Santa Ana Stars. We merely wanted a close-to-home view of the situation.

Cole's team, as a whole, is still the best outfit in the league and none know it better than the Oilers.

FOUND ON THE CUFF
THE MORNING AFTER

As nervous as a war correspondent at Vimy ridge, we scribbled down the enemy's remarks last night in between talking to Joe Rodgers. Here they are:

"Hey! There goes Neva! Broke up our ball club, eh? Well, he did it again! Look at that Denny go... the lucky stiff... grabbed that ten feet outside the foul line with one hand! Hey, Bill Cole! That was smart baseball—walking Louie Neva! (No answer from Cole on the third-base line.) That's a break for us... Lacy falling down and getting put out... it was an easy double... Neva's doing that circus pitching again... Joe'll bawl him out... I never will get a base hit if that guy Lacy keeps on speaking those bouncers with one hand!... Three strikeouts in a row with Coates' third base! (We are swallowed up in the crowd as proud Huntington Beach citizens swarm around to hail Neva.)"

SALICA BEATS DANO IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Wednesday, June 12. (AP)—Because he took Referee Abe Roth at his word, Lou Salica, 19-year-old Brooklyn Italian, boasted a victory over Pablo Dano of the Philippines today and with it the world's bantamweight title as recognized by the California Athletic commission.

Referee Roth stepped into the breach after five dull rounds at the Olympic last night before 8,000 persons and told Salica he would throw him out of the ring if he didn't show more of a willingness to fight. The Brooklyn boy had dropped the first five stanzas to his opponent. Salica crashed the Manila mauler to the canvas three times in the ninth and only the bell prevented a knockout.

MRS. DON BATEY---RIFLIST

She Belongs to Santiago Club

Perhaps nowhere in California will be found a more active sports-woman than Santa Ana's Mrs. Don Batey, an expert riflist and the only lady to qualify for membership in the Santiago gun club of more than 35 members who hold semi-monthly shoots on their range near Irvine park.

Devoted to hunting and fishing, the vivacious proprietor of a Santa Ana women's apparel shop, spends most of her leisure moments with a gun or rod and reel in her hands.

Mrs. Batey has become skillful with not only a 30-30 rifle but operates a 410-shotgun and a .22 as well.

Out of a possible score of 50, the young Santa Ana annexed 46 points in an inter-club shoot over a 600-yard range at Irvine park Sunday. She also has gained considerable success at other distances—200, 300 and 500 yards.

Hunts Rabbits

Two and three nights a week Mrs. Batey goes hunting for rabbits in the county, and usually bags an enviable number. She also likes to hunt for duck and dove.

The Santa Ana riflist constantly shoots her .22 at bull's eye target on her father's ranch.

Mrs. Batey first became interested in hunting while a resident of Montana, where her brothers actively engaged in all outdoor sports.

Arranges Shoot

The Santiago club, of which Myron Warner of Santa Ana is president and James Sweet is vice president and secretary, is arranging a match with its old rival, Pasadena, for the near future.

Baer-Braddock Gate Put at $250,000 As Bout Interest Lulls

By ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Wednesday, June 12.—Despite its dramatic prospects and the probability it will be a surprisingly hard-fought match, the world's heavyweight championship fight between Champion Max Baer and Challenger James J. Braddock tomorrow night has failed to arouse excitement or the sharp differences of opinion generally associated with such momentous fistic affairs.

MRS. MOODY WINS AGAIN IN LONDON

LONDON, Wednesday, June 12.

(AP)—Sweeping along toward her second successive tournament title, Helen Wills Moody today trounced Nancy Lyle of England in the third round of the Kent tennis championship today, 6-1, 6-2.

The Californian, attempting a comeback after being on the sidelines for nearly two years, played perhaps the best tennis she has flashed since she came to England a few weeks ago. Her British rival was outclassed throughout.

By her victory, Mrs. Moody qualified for the semi-finals where she will meet either Katherine Stammers or Eileen Bennett Whitting-Stall on Friday.

SPEED LIMIT PREDICTED

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN

LOS ANGELES, Wednesday, June 12. (AP)—Coach Larry Snyder of Ohio State, the one man who might be pardoned for a few rash remarks about sprint records since he has a chap named Jesse Owens on his squad, conservatively predicted today 9.3 seconds is the fastest any runner of the present generation will do for one hundred yards.

Naturally Coach Snyder, who has Owens and a dozen other athletes on the west coast for a dual meet with Southern California, the National Collegiate champions, at Berkeley and the far western A. A. U. meet at San Diego, believes his dusky protégé will be the first to clip that slim tenth of a second off Frank Wykoff's world's mark.

"The best that can be expected of Owens in the 100-yard dash," said Coach Snyder almost apologetically, "is 9.3 seconds. As a matter of fact I am convinced no runner of the present generation will do better than that."

"If Owens is to run the hundred that fast—or any other runner for that matter—he must have a combination of a perfect track, stiff competition and run from start to finish without a mistake. Jesse will have one of the fastest tracks in the world when he runs on the Olympic Games course against the Trojans and plenty of competition too, but I wouldn't be willing to predict he would break the record."

"In sprinting a 100 yards a man can't just say, 'I'm going out to break the world's record,' and do it. He'll be all tied up and is even apt to be beaten. The time in the hundred is down so fine now that an athlete must be thoroughly relaxed to take even so little as a tenth of a second off the mark."

'Tiny' Thornhill To Speak Before Lions Wednesday

Stanford's highly successful football coach, rugged "Tiny" Thornhill, will speak before the Senior Lions of Santa Ana next Wednesday noon, it was learned today.

Thornhill, who coached the Cardinals to the Pacific coast championship last fall, but lost in the Rose bowl to Alabama's Crimson Tide, will discuss Stanford prospects for the coming season.

The Stanford club of Orange county is bringing him to Santa Ana. Mr. Thornhill is expected to make several grid talks in this vicinity.

SEALS GAIN AS JOINER HELPS

By the Associated Press

Ray Joiner, late of the Angels, made his debut with San Francisco and put the Seals back in third place again in the Pacific Coast baseball league today.

Joiner whiffed nine men as he bore down after getting into a couple of tight spots to beat the Missions 9 to 6 last night.

Acorns Beat Stars

Ken Douglas, slender southpaw of the Oakland club, returned to his early season form as he hurled and hit the Acorns to a 2 to 1 win over Hollywood in a torrid pitching duel with big Ed Wells.

Douglas took things in his own hands in the ninth, when with two away and the score even stephen, he smashed a long single to centerfield to score Emil Malho with the winning run.

John Bottarini found Jimmy John for two home runs in the Seattle-Sacramento game but it wasn't enough for the Solons, inspired by the presence of Casey Williams, Kamm of Cleveland and Earl Sheely of the Boston Americans, defeated Seattle, 6 to 4.

Los Angeles defeated Portland 3 to 1 in an old-fashioned pitchers' battle between Lou Garland and the Angels, and Jake Wade of the Ducks, Wade allowed six and Garland seven hits.

PRIZES ANNOUNCED FOR JOURNAL-HOTPOINT COOKING SCHOOL

WELFARE NEED IS CITED BY SERA HEAD

With the federal relief program being switched to provide relief only for employable men and women, pressure must be brought to bear on the county welfare department to obtain adequate aid for the unemployables, according to the Rev. George Warner, member of the State Emergency Relief Administration committee for Orange county.

Need for this pressure was stressed yesterday afternoon at the weekly meeting of the committee. Dr. Warner said that if the federal government does not go through with its original security program, some one must "get on his hind legs" and tell the welfare department to provide funds sufficient to extend relief to these unemployables.

No Outline Yet
The local SERA committee has not yet received an outline as to what the new program will be after June 30 when all unemployables will be taken off the SERA relief rolls and turned back to the county for aid. It has been announced that in addition to caring for unemployable men and women, the county will be required to provide medical and dental aid for both employable and unemployable persons on relief.

SERA Director Terrance Halloran said yesterday he believed this phase of the revised program means that all the county will be called upon to do is provide hospitalization.

With no direct indication that it will be abandoned in the "new deal," the committee went ahead yesterday preparing to put into operation the recently approved medical and dental aid project.

Mr. Halloran reported on a meeting of the medical committee at which preliminary plans for the program were discussed. At this conference the Orange County Medical Society was represented by Dr. Dexter Ball, the dentists by Dr. Cassius Paul, druggists by Bruce Monroe, and the board of supervisors by W. C. Jerome.

Seek Capable Man
Mr. Halloran said the most important step in getting the program under way is selection of a director for the project. The SERA committee decided to refer the matter to the medical committee for recommendation as to a capable man.

Recognizing that there are many persons considered unemployable who could be returned to the ranks of workers through the provision of spectacles, trusses or other items, Dr. Warner suggested that money be taken from the balance remaining in this county's share of relief bond money and turned over to the county for providing these things.

Gossips Whispering That Nursery Is Added

LONDON, Wednesday, June 12. (AP)—The advent of a new royal child, if gossip's busy tongue is true, will soon enliven the household of the Duke and Duchess of Kent at No. 3 Belgrave square. No provision for a "blessed event" was made in the five-story regency house when the duke and his bride, the former Princess Marina of Greece, returned from their honeymoon voyage last April. Then suddenly carpenters appeared. They vanished within, announcing with an almost imperceptible wink that they were going to build a studio for the duchess to continue her painting. But the sound of their hammers found an echo in the drawing-rooms of Mayfair and the clubs of Pall Mall. "They say the duchess... in September."

Nursery Mystery
London newspapers, in contrast to the outright methods of some American columnists, put the whisper in ink with the subtle announcement: "It is understood the duchess is shortly to curtail her social engagements."

The location of the nursery is still a mystery. The first two floors of the house of Kent are fully occupied by the duke and duchess themselves, while the third floor is given over to guest rooms. Somewhere above, altered, the present floor plan is altered, rooms will have to be transformed into a nursery for the first child of the royal couple.

Suite Beautiful
The most beautiful rooms in the house comprise the duchess' bedroom suite. The painted walls of white have been hung with silver curtains. The wide French windows, leading to a be-floored balcony, are heavily draped with quilted silver satin. Bed cover and draperies match. The furniture is white touched with silver, and her four poster bed is shrouded in muslin. Long glass panels, lit by concealed lights in the floor, alternate with panels of white pickled walnut.

Leading from the bedroom is a modern bathroom, of black marble and black glass, with the shower and fittings of silver and curtains of waterproofed satin. On the black glass walls fantastic patterns are traced in silver.

FULLERTON J. C. GRADUATES 155

FULLERTON, Wednesday, June 12.—One hundred and fifty-five students were honored at the twenty-first annual commencement exercises of Fullerton District Junior college held here last night in the school auditorium.

Four class speakers were introduced by Lyle Ditzler, class president. They were Marian Blewitt, Gerald Schick, John Boyd and John Shann, the theme of their speeches being "Attributes of an Educated Person."

John W. Schiller, president of the board of trustees, conferred the title of associate of arts on the graduating class, which was presented by Dean W. T. Boyce, who also announced honors and awards for students. Louis E. Plummer made his annual superintendent's statement during the exercises.

Two organ numbers by Miss Myrtle Klahn opened the program. Dr. Thomas Newlin, former junior college faculty member and now of Whittier college, pronounced invocation and benediction.

The school orchestra and college chamber music group, directed by Harold Walberg, played.

ACQUITTED IN FOURTH TRIAL

BLOUNTSTOWN, Fla. (AP)—J. P. I. Chance was acquitted in his fourth trial for the slaying of R. J. Flanders. Mistrials resulted twice, and at the third trial he was convicted. But the state supreme court set aside the verdict and ordered a new trial.

BOARD REFUSES PAYMENT OF INTEREST

Declining to set a precedent that might embarrass several of the cities in Orange county, the board of supervisors yesterday refused to approve payment of delinquent interest on county improvement bonds that come under provisions of the Lakeport bond case decision. The interest, according to County Auditor William Lambert, amounts to approximately $65,000.

Under the Lakeport decision, cities and counties with bonds for improvements coming under provisions of the act of 1915 are required to pay the delinquent interest. The bonds, it was pointed out yesterday, are against individual property and not assessed against any political subdivision.

County Able to Pay
Supervisor W. C. Jerome pointed out, when the board decided against setting a precedent, that while the county is in a position to pay delinquent interest on these county improvement bonds, many of the cities could not make the payment.

"The county," Mr. Jerome said, "does not want to place itself in a position of setting a precedent that might embarrass any of the municipalities."

It was pointed out that the county is meeting payment on all bonds for which it is directly responsible, and failure to take up the $65,000 delinquency will not jeopardize the county's credit.

SERA PROJECT FUNDS ARRIVE

The State Emergency Relief Administration in Orange county this week received its first allotment of state funds for supplying material on local projects, according to a report submitted yesterday by Director Terrance Halloran. The state allotment for Orange county amounts to $11,040, and of this amount $5858 was received this week.

Mr. Halloran reported division of the allotment as follows: San Clemente State Beach Park, $798; Orange City Park, $620; Batavia street storm drain, $1240; Santa Ana Santiago park, $1240; Orange County Santiago park, $1860, and SERA band and orchestra, $100. The committee also approved transfer of money up to $1000 from the Orange Santiago creek project to fund for completion of the swimming pool in Orange. This request was made at the request of the city of Orange, and the money will be transferred from the $3000 recently allotted to the City of Orange from the bond fund.

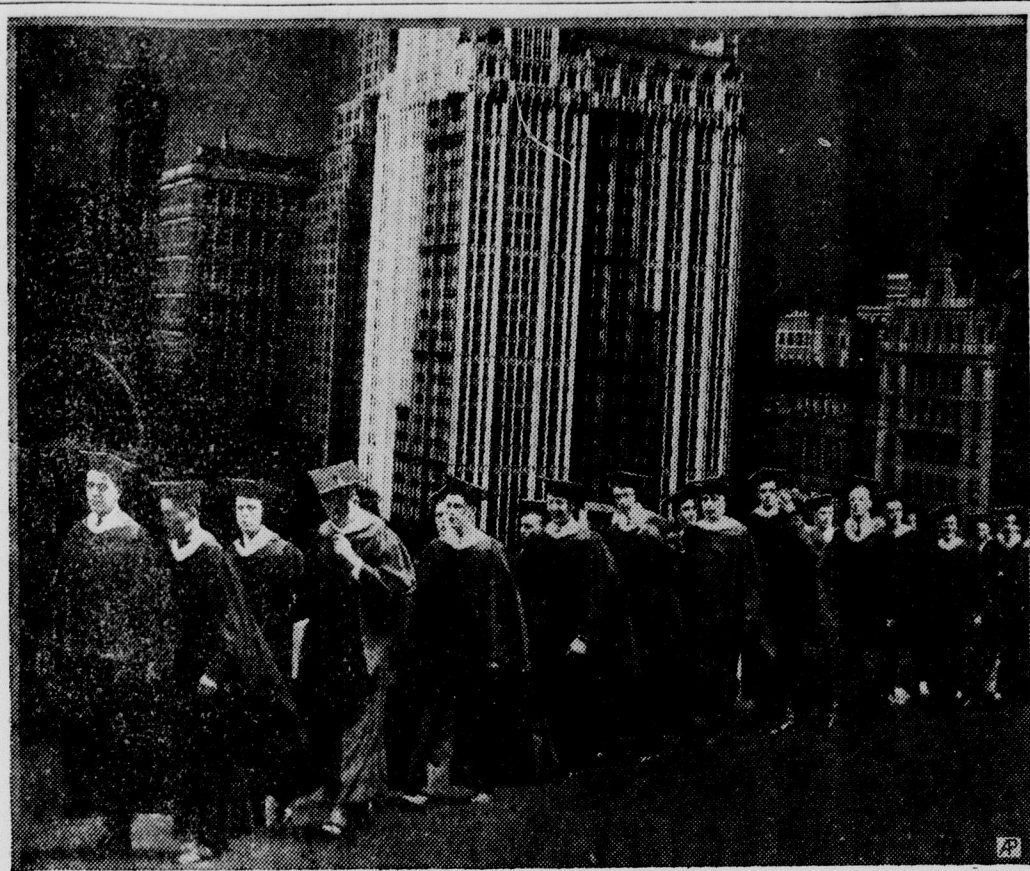

NINE SUITS OF CLOTHES STOLEN
While H. Lewis, proprietor of the Lewis Clothing store, 405 West Fourth street, was out to lunch yesterday, his store was entered and robbed of nine suits of clothing valued at $150, he reported to police.

Mrs. Helen Voyler, a clerk, was in the rear of the store typing at the time the burglary took place. A witness told officers he saw two Mexicans leave the store at about the time of the burglary, both with their arms full of clothing.

The Duchess of Kent—carpenters' winks were taken to mean that her "new studio" really is a nursery.

CASE OF MISSING PANTS Or Who Has a Claim Check

"I want my pants," stated a customer as he entered a store in the 400 block on East Fourth street the other night. The proprietor was perfectly willing to give the man his pants, providing he had them. He asked the customer for his claim check. The customer didn't have one, but obliged the proprietor by signing a ticket. The proprietor gave the man a pair of pants, but discovered later that the customer had only signed his initials.

A short time later another customer came into the store. "I want my pants," he said presenting the proprietor with a claim check.

The proprietor looked for a pair of pants with a stub to match the claim check. He couldn't find any. "I am on a spot," thought the proprietor as he explained to the customer that he had just given his pants to another man.

The proprietor is now faced with the problem of locating the first customer with the second customer's pants. And the police are trying to keep peace between the proprietor and customer No. 2.

Attractive reduced rates for a six weeks stay at Boy Scout Camp Rokili, Barton Flats near Redlands, were announced today by Harrison White, Orange county Boy Scout executive.

"Because of reduced food costs, we are able to offer a price of $3.85 a week, plus $1 transportation, to boys staying six weeks. A large group of boys, or those getting six other boys to accompany them, are eligible for the same rate," Executive White said.

For a two-week stay, a charge of $5.50 a week plus 50 cents transportation will be made. One week's stay for an individual will cost $6.85, plus 50 cents transportation.

Juvenile delinquency always increases during the summer months, Executive White said, who stated the constructive instruction and outdoor life afforded at camp are well worth the cost of expenditure. Camping will start June 15 and continue until Aug. 1.

Mr. Fallert also reported that last week he received 85 new applications for work, and had placed 156 men on jobs. Of this number, he said, 40 were taken off relief rolls.

The SERA committee informed Mr. Fallert that placing of the three employees on full time will be sent to SERA headquarters as a project for approval. Pending action by state headquarters, the three workers were put on salaries of $22 each per week, for two weeks.

Mr. Fallert also reported that last week he received 85 new applications for work, and had placed 156 men on jobs. Of this number, he said, 40 were taken off relief rolls.

1. EMPEROR HAILE SELASSIE I
Haile Selassie I, emperor of Ethiopia, King of Kings, is an African monarch of the modern school. As war clouds gather on the horizon of his empire, he has thrown the full weight of his knowledge of modern affairs into preparations for defense. This recent picture was taken at a review where 107 young officers-to-be showed their monarch what they had learned in two months' instruction from Swedish officers. The emperor remarked that for all his love of modernization, he was a little disappointed, since in the old-style African fighting there was "more to see." He admitted, however, that the men were being taught to fight without being seen, a highly important objective in modern warfare. (First of 15 Pictures)

Tips On Contract

DISCARDING HONORS

There are situations when it pays, not to freeze on to protected honors to the bitter end in view of the fact that eventually one will make, but to get rid of them as quickly as possible.

The failure of less able players to recognize the necessity for exit plays permits the expert to make some contracts which can be set. Take this hand:

South dealt and bid a heart, which West overcalled with a spade. North volunteered two hearts, East passed. In view of partner's free raise, South went to four hearts. West decided it was futile to sacrifice or double. So he passed.

West, in a bad way for a lead, started with his trump singleton. The declarer noted that he was likely to lose a diamond club and two spades going down one, unless West should lead spades eventually. So he took the only course open to him, playing on the assumption either that the adverse holdings would compel West to lead favorably or that a defender would err.

The first three tricks were taken with trumps, South winding up in his own hand. He then led a club. West went up with the ace and returned a club for lack of anything better to do. The trick was won in the North hand with the king and a club was trumped South.

South led the ace of diamonds, followed by a low diamond to the king. The declarer led his last diamond and West had to take it. He had nothing left in his hand but spades. Disgusted, he led the ace spade. South won with the king and a low one, which South won with the king. The contract was made, the declarer losing a club, a spade and a diamond.

Came a bridge lesson to West from the holder of the East cards in this game at the Algonquin club, New York. Said Maude Zontlein to his partner:

"The way to have defeated that contract was for you to play your queen of diamonds on the ace and your jack of diamonds on the second round of the suit. Then the shaded round of diamonds would have led through South's king of spades. The declarer would have lost a club, a diamond and two spades. The exit play was clearly marked from the bidding, my passing, the dummy and your own hand with its tenaces in spades and clubs."

Compliment Soon-to-Be Bride At Contract Bridge Tea

Miss Evelyn Metzgar, attractive young Santa Ana, whose marriage to Lawrence H. Minge of Anaheim will take place Saturday evening, June 22, at 8 o'clock in the Episcopal Church of the Messiah, was guest of honor at a smart contract bridge tea given by Mrs. Edmund West yesterday in the West home, 726 Kilson drive.

Prizes in the contract play went to Mrs. John Tesson and Mrs. Douglas Paterson of Santa Ana and to Mrs. Edward Field (Enid Twist) of San Pedro.

The home was lent added color by the use of flowers sent for the occasion by the hostess' uncle, Terry E. Stephenson, and by Miss Stella Groff.

Helps For Housewives

Armed with a little nonchalance and very little money, you can transform those faded winter living rooms into quarters as gay and lovely as summer garden.

Any one who can sew a straight seam can do smart slip covers and you may be as novel and original as you like. There is no end to variety and in design and texture: rough "homespun" plaid in cream, brown, or bright colors; printed line in brilliant splashy new Tahitian designs; rep stripe; and the new lightweight mohairs in stripes or sunfast colors; copies of English chintzes in floral motifs; and glazed and unglazed chintzes in modern designs.

You may quilt around the design, it's an old-fashioned idea, but it will make you as modern now; you may applique designs of your own; or you can go in for striking two and three color effects, using plain contrasting colors in weltings, bindings and cushions. They may be made to button, snap or zipper on. In fact, put your tongue in your cheek and do anything you please.

FOR SHELLING NUTS

In removing nuts from their shells pour boiling water over them and let them soak over night. Your job the next day will be more than cut in half.

ONIONS WITHOUT TEARS

Onions most certainly add in flavoring. They're good as vegetables. But if you do not wish to cry while preparing one hold it under the running water tap while cutting.

THE MERCHANTS' ANSWER

"ARE YOU BETTER OFF TODAY THAN YOU WERE TWO YEARS AGO?" This question heads a large display advertisement which appears in the current issues of the San Francisco daily newspapers.

The query and a statement discussing it are signed by an amazing list of organizations, the Retail Merchants association, the booksellers, butchers, cigar stores, retail druggists, retail dry goods, furniture, retail grocers, hardware, music dealers, optical dealers, paint, wall paper, glass, pet dealers, retail clothiers, shoe dealers, stationers, merchant tailors, typewriter, retail florists, and tire and battery associations, together with a list of regional mercantile associations.

And here is how these thousands of business men answer the question they have posed:

Remember the chaotic, uncertain, terrifying existence of two or three years ago? Remember how people were being "laid off" by thousands? How none knew when he (or she) came to work in the morning whether he would have a job by night? Remember the "pay cuts" that came, one after another, with sickening regularity?

As more and more employees were laid off, business became worse! As business became worse, more and more employees were laid off! As this vicious circle continued, employees who did remain in their jobs had to work longer hours for less pay... and like it!

Who wants to go back to those "good (?) old days?"

NOBODY!

We believe you will agree that, by and large, conditions today are much better than they were two years ago.

If you do, we believe you'll further agree that the principles which brought about this improvement should be continued.

These principles included good wages, with minimum schedules to protect against the child labor and "sweat shop" practices of the past... short hours, so that more people may be employed and so that all may enjoy adequate hours of leisure... fair trade practices, so that the public may not be fooled by vicious cut-throat and other bad trade practices... truth in advertising, so that the public may have complete confidence in the merchants with whom it deals.

To the end that these principles of recovery may be continued, the employers of more than 36,000 San Francisco employees have banded together to declare their faith in these principles and to work for their perpetuation. It is their hope that present wages and hours of labor may be continued and that the dog-eat-dog business practices of the past may not again be indulged in.

This stand of these 7,027 San Francisco retail merchants will be unavailing, however, without the active, definite support of the public. IF YOU believe in decent wages, decent working hours, decent trade practices and decent advertising... in other words, if you believe in fair play, you will seek out, and trade with firms that you know are trying to live up to these principles.

LIFT UP YOUR EYES

MOUNT WILSON offers a delightful trip to Southland unfolds a rapid series of panoramic views. Even seasoned motorists are inclined to ecstatic comment at the glorious prospect which each turn reveals. The mount rises more than 6,000 feet in a drive of some twenty-five miles. The observatories are open to the public on Friday evenings. With easier access the weekly throngs have been increasing. To talk of stellar spheres is getting to be quite the thing.

On a recent Friday evening an impenetrable fog settled completely over the plain where live more than half the population of the state. Earth and sea were hidden. The entire mount was surrounded with seething, billowy masses of wool. The summit was deluged with the sun's declining rays. Towering cloud masses rolled athwart the heavens. A peculiar sense of loneliness moved across the surging undulations like sea foam spuming against a tiny isle, lost in the deep.

When twilight deepened to darkness the enveloping clouds disappeared. The lights of 60 cities of the plain glinted through the thickening dusk. The full moon flooded the summit with soft effulgence. Primeval pines sighed in the gentle breeze.

An entertaining lecturer depicted feelingly the hardships of an earlier day, when the telescopic machinery was dragged to the summit by pack burros and mule teams. When the first truck puffed up the slope with a 12-ton section of the 100-inch instrument it was a red-letter day.

The planet Jupiter was the object of attack that evening. The great 60-inch telescope brought the orb within easy reach, big as a basketball, with two little moons near by. The planet has nine known moons. A glimpse at the wonders of the heavens above is the best antidote for the petty ills to which mortals devote much of their time and attention.

OUT OF THE RUT

HERE'S a story about a waitress, that happens to be true. She worked in a downtown restaurant; still does. Every day she got up at the same time, worked the same shift, saw the same customers, went through the same routine. Being a normal sort of girl, the sameness of her existence finally got her down.

The other noon, customers in the booths she tended found the silver laid all in the wrong way—knives on the left, forks on the right, spoons anywhere. Some of them kicked and some laughed.

The girl explained: "I just had to do something different—or go crazy!"

Most of us feel, at some time or another, very much like the waitress. Going through the same motions every day becomes a torture.

We have all wondered why the streetcar motorman doesn't suddenly get off his route and go touring all over the city. Or why movie cashiers don't jump up, sell themselves a ticket and go inside to see the show.

When you feel that life is piling up on you, and that the routine is getting you down, do something different for a day or two. Get out into the country; come into the city—anything to break the chains of circumstance. You'll feel better for it.

Whimsies of O.O. McIntyre

Imitation may be the sincerest form of flattery but it often proves disastrous to amusement originality.

A shining example is the eclipse of Helen Kane. Her petulant boo-boop-a-dooping jumped out of obscurity into a four figured weekly salary.

She packed movie stage shows and musical comedies with no other performer of her day. Then came a flood of imitators on the stage, screen and radio.

Too, there is the husky voiced dramatic actress Lenore Ulric missing from the boards too long. There was a time when every vaudeville mimic impersonated her. But the most conspicuous suffocation by imitation was Eva Tanguay. At one time 200 performers were essaying her jittery twists.

I had a moment of horror along the west drive of Central Park yesterday I never want to experience again. A golden haired rosebud tottering after her nurse, suddenly turned toward the maelstrom of traffic in the roadway.

In a flash she was paddling to what looked instant doom. One car with a mighty shriek of brakes and quick turn missed her by an eyelash but others were bearing down. There were despairing screams and hasty prayers. She escaped miraculously. A bright strip of tin-foil had attracted her.

New York is called the world's best show. In the center of the city are often two and three shoe shops to a block. Many resplendent stores on the Bowery and Grand street are shoe retailers. Members of the amusement profession are particularly meticulous about footwear. Jaine Cowi is reputed to buy a dozen pairs at a crack. Damon Runyon's chief extravagance is shoes, which he wears a few times and passes on to his pal, Hype Igoe. Irving Brokaw, one of the better dressed men, keeps sixty pairs in his wardrobe at all times. William Goadby Lowie is another shoe spendthrift.

Then the necktie splurgers. Adolph Zukor has at times bought 2,000 at a crack. They are his favorite gift to employees on returning European trips. Clarence Mackay at one time was also a heavy cravat customer. And Vernon Castle, at the peak of his dance reign, had designs for scarves never duplicated in America, especially made by a silk concern in Lyons. Flo Ziegfeld bought ties by the several dozens every month or so. At his passing he had more than a thousand that had never been worn. Bert Williams once bought every tie in a window at Saks's.

Some summers ago, I dropped into Charvet's in Paris to select ties. My usual Scot wariness succumbed to what I thought was a favorite gift to employees on returning European trips. Talks to Parents

Making Invalids

There is a potential neurotic in every child, and it is very easy to cultivate it by over-solicitude. Everyone likes attention, and will get it by fair means or foul, and especially the tiny child. Once he has learned the trick he will cling to it and foster it until it has become second nature. One of the easiest ways to gain attention is to be sick.

The child who finds that sickness will make him the center of the stage and bring him petting and special favors which under normal conditions he does not receive, is going to be sick as often and as long as possible.

Why Spoiling? There are many households where sickness is made an occasion. The ordinary life of the home stops, all rules are off, and the family hovers anxiously about the sick-bed, humoring the invalid and offering him presents and tidbits. Mother gives up her time to read and sit with the patient; father hurries home from work with a toy or flower or some tempting dainty; the other children are pushed aside to give first place to the invalid. Why forego such spoiling? Why not stay in bed at least find an excuse for a speedy return to it?

Childish Ailments Many a chronic invalid or nervous wreck was made what he is by over-attention during childhood ailments. It would not be a bad plan in most cases to penalize sickness. Many colds can be avoided, so can most digestive upsets—the most common ailments of childhood.

Once sure it is no more than these, try a good first aid treatment. But bed without adoring friends and family. Let the child amuse itself and make the active life of those who are well so interesting that bed ceases to have any charm when the sick child is himself once more. Many of the minor ailments of childhood would be avoided or at least lessened in intensity by such treatment.

Feeling Well Today?

ACIDOSIS IN CHILDREN: II

The severe form of so-called "acidosis" is seen in cyclical vomiting. A child suffering from this condition is unable to retain food, sometimes not even a teaspoonful of water. The vomiting spell is commonly ushered in by certain preliminary symptoms, such as yawning, weakness and irritability. There is usually a slight rise in temperature. The child is drowsy and without energy. The attack may last two or three days, and then cease suddenly.

The cause of cyclical vomiting, despite the fact that it is so intimately associated with clinical acidosis, is still subject to doubt. There is a constitutional factor in this condition, for the child subject to cyclical vomiting is usually of the thin, nervous type, whose parents are frequently classified as neurotic.

This condition enters also into certain psychologic factors. Not infrequently the attacks are associated with emotional disturbances.

When the child shows what are called the prodromal signs and symptoms, such as yawning, lassitude, irritability, it should be placed in bed and it should be fed a high carbohydrate diet. However, this diet must not be continued for any length of time and if the child does not improve within a day or two, medical help should be sought as soon as possible.

A TRAGIC GENERATION

(Fullerton News-Tribune)

A tragic irony surrounds France's latest call of her youth to military service. Born during the World war the boys just conscripted are the "war babies" of twenty years ago. Now they are summoned to the colors in a period of apprehension so general that the French have felt it necessary to double their term of training. Thus in a single generation Europe has progressed from a war-to-end-war to a situation that conceivably may produce an even more terrible war, this time a war that may end civilization.

It is an unfortunate generation which even began its life under a handicap. The war-time scarcity of food resulted in much malnutrition among children. Then when the children of 1914-1918 were ready to earn their living, they found opportunities greatly diminished by the economic distress that was a direct consequence of the war. And now they are confronted with the fact that the enormous sacrifices of that conflict have not been able to assure peace in Europe for more than a generation. The experience of these war babies is a bitter commentary upon the incompetent management of human affairs.

NEW MEXICAN HIGHWAY (San Bernardino Sun)

Mexico has opened to motor traffic its new highway from the border to Mexico, D. F. Much work remains to be done in the mountainous sections between Tamazunchale and Jacala, and until new hotels, tourist camps and eating places are provided along the route from Ciudad Victoria to the capital, the motor journey will be something of a pioneering adventure.

Conceding that much, the Cardenas government is in line for congratulations on a very fine achievement. Overcoming almost insuperable engineering difficulties, it has opened and on schedule, the longest single link in the Pan American highway. Encouraged by the example of Mexico, the Central American states are

YE DIARY

(Lord's Day.) This afternoon the family doth demand that I do take them a-driving in the petrol buggy, but I do refuse, for, in all truth, the only safe Sunday afternoon drive to be as follows: Start from front of house, drive north along street and turn right at first corner; drive straight ahead until end of block is reached; turn right; then south to next street intersection, turning right; follow street north until front of own house is reached; park petrol buggy; go into house; remain there until Monday morning.

Willy Nilly saw how beautifully the garden had been done, weeded and watered.

"The Indians planted a lot of things, didn't they?" Willy Nilly exclaimed with pleasure as he saw how everything was growing. "You are a fine lot, too, helping me the way you are."

Mrs. Quacko's smile reached from one side of her head to the other.

"You're not worried any more, are you, Willy Nilly?" she asked.

"A little," Willy Nilly admitted. "Christopher Columbus Crow, won't you tell Willy Nilly he shouldn't worry about Rip?" Mrs. Quacko said. "The weather is so beautiful I'm sure Rip forgot he had said he would be back for supper and only thought of the breeze and the country and the exercise."

"Maybe he did forget he said he would be back for supper," said Willy Nilly brightly.

"That's probably it. He only said it once as he was going off and I don't believe he thought of what he was saying. Mrs. Quacko, you've really cheered me now."

And all the other Puddle Muddlers joined in the conversation and agreed that Mrs. Quacko was right. Top Notch, the rooster, was back now, his feathers dry and smooth once more.

"Leave me alone, Christopher, or I'll whack you with my strong right wing," he said with brave magnificence.

SWEDISH CLOCK PERPETUAL Orebro, Sweden, boasts that a clock at the outskirts of the town, has been keeping correct time for over 18 years without being re-wound, and appears to be good for many more. It is actuated by changes in air pressure and so constructed that even if there is no change in air pressure for 12 months it will still keep going. The inventor declares that only the wearing out of the parts can stop his timepiece.

Business is improving. I have indisputable proof. Monday afternoon I was requested to make three contacts with business men. And did I? In every instance the steno acted as a shield for the boss, or there was some good reason why they did not want to talk to me. Frequent telephone calls brought the customary response that "Mr. So and So had not come in yet, but I am expecting him every moment. Shall I have him call you?" As if I would know where I would be from minute to minute. Anyway, I am ready to believe that business is better.

It's about vacation time for those who have saved up enough money to go places. Vacations are often a domestic tonic as well as a balance.
